THE NEW COLOR

The New Color is my flagship color literacy course. It covers the basics of color theory and unpacks the dense network of color codes at play in the world and in ourselves. Topics include color perception, basic color terms, color science, color order systems, pigments, color history, color interaction, color psychology, and color management. My goal is for students to gain color skills essential for communication in the 21st century—not just for artists and designers, but for everyone.
